NO HOPE FOR THE STRIKERS.

The Railway Companies Handling Local and Through Freight Without Them.

The railroad companies seem to have their business running smoothly again. In the yards and at the city depots, yesterday, notwithstanding it was Sunday, there was a good deal of work done and most of the roads began the week with the delayed freight all forwarded and that for city delivery unloaded from the cars. The yardmasters say they are getting good men from those applying for work. The last few days many who are experienced in switching came from other points and were put to work, but none are employed unless bearing good recommendations. At many places in the last thirty days a reduction of expenses has been the hobby and a considerable number of men have been dropped from the pay-roll, and the discharged naturally drift to a point where new men are wanted. There is but little disposition to molest those whom the companies are employing.

Many of the strikers, seeing that without the assistance of the engineers and firemen their cause is hopeless, are anxious to return to work. Some of them have been ready to go back several days, and one said last night that at least half of those out would apply for their old places to-day. Nearly all those who want to work are men with families who were opposed to striking in the beginning, and they say that if they continue to stay out they can see nothing ahead but suffering for their wives and children. Although nearly all the companies have said that they would not re-employ the strikers, it is generally believed that if the men show a desire to return to work they will be given places, especially those who have been with the roads a good while, and have families to support.

Industrial and Trade Notes.

Indianapolis elevators on Dec. 1 contained 492,210 bushels of grain, against 467,690 bushels for the corresponding date in 1887.

The Indiana Feed-water Heater and Purifier Company, which was organized two months ago, is already doing a good business.

The Standard Oil Company is shipping east, for its works here, an average of 160 carloads of finished staves and headings per month.

Within the last five months the Citizen's Street-railroad Company has received from Johnston, Pa., 1,100 tons of steel rails, cross-ties and ties.

The United States Encaustic Tile Company is now receiving more orders for highly polished ornamental enamel tiling than at any time since the works were started.

The manufacturers of hominy find it quite difficult to keep up with their orders. They have trouble in getting the quality of corn they want, and prices are well maintained.

It is stated that on the West Side, this year, over two hundred cottages have been erected by mechanics employed at the car, the Woodburn-Savona wheel and Nurdyke & Marmon works.

Now that the Indianapolis Natural-gas Company has run a main to North Indianapolis nearly all the residents of that flourishing suburb are placing pipes in their houses to get the benefit of the cheap fuel.

The present year has been a very favorable one for furniture manufacturers, as most of the Indianapolis factories will yield handsome returns on the investments. Especially is this true of the chair manufacturers.

For some days past the Indianapolis Car Company has been receiving an average of forty carloads of material a day, partly lumber, and the rest in old car wheels and pieces, which are to be used in making new car wheels.

The Water Company has ceased making extensions and general repairs until spring. During the past season it has laid additional pipes, but has done more in replacing main lines with larger ones, and putting in double fire-plugs in place of single ones.

The florists are not having as good a year as was 1887, thus far. One reason is that their number has been increased to eighteen within the last twelve months, a gain of four. People have gone into the private cultivation of flowers on a more extensive scale than ever before.

The Oliver Chilled Plow Company has been making heavy shipments of plows from the factory to the Indianapolis distributing house, which now contains 210 carloads. January the company will begin to ship from this distributing center, which is much the largest the company has.

The outlook is brightening somewhat for Brickwork. All the manufacturers located there are prosperous, and their highly probable that, during the coming year, two or three new manufacturing interests will be located there. The Bee-line people think some of enlarging their car-building department.

The improvement in business with the lounge manufacturers of late has largely increased the order for excelsior. In Indianapolis has become noted as an excelsior manufacturing point, not only in furnishing local manufacturers, but in making large shipments to other points. When running at full capacity the works of the character here turn out twenty-five tons of excelsior a day.

King & Co., during November, killed 72,000 hogs. They worked every week-day but the two on which the swine were killed were height. Coffin, Greenstreet & Fletcher have been in operation only two weeks and killed 3,000 hogs. Landers & Co. are hesitating about the matter, as the price of hogs is now a rule too high. Possibly they will begin operations this week.

WHAT KOONTZ HAS TO MEET.

Only Effect of His Scheme to Disrupt the G. A. R. an Increase in Its Membership.

In view of the talk of disrupting the Grand Army of the Republic sent out by a few Democratic schemers of this city, who have never as yet been able to secure a corporal's guard of members in good standing to assist in such a project, some reference to the figures, showing the growth of the association in past years, when such schemes have been talked of, as well as a statement of such figures for the present year, will not be without interest. In 1877, following the election of President Hayes, the order increased from 26,899 to 27,179; in 1881, after the election of President Garfield, it grew from 60,634 to 85,856, and in 1885, when President Cleveland came to the order progressed from 273,168 to 291,787. In all these years the same Democratic charges that the order was being used as a political machine were urged, and there were efforts made to subvert Democratic comrades from the ranks; but recognizing the fact that in the very nature of things, as fixed by the organic law of the association, such use of it was impossible, these charges were scouted at, and neither lessened the membership of the organization nor interfered with its rapid and steady growth.

The figures showing the increase of the order during and since the recent election cannot be furnished for some time to come, but it may be of interest to people to whom the downfall of the Grand Army has been predicted to know that the organization increased from 320,946 members in 1887 to 385,966 in September, 1888, and it is altogether likely that before the end of the present year its roster will have the names of over 400,000 soldiers who learned the value of comradeship during and since the war of the rebellion. The clause in the Constitution of the order against the withdrawal of membership from the organization is Article 9, and it reads as follows: "No officer or comrade of the Grand Army of the Republic shall in any manner use this organization for partisan purposes, and no discussion of partisan questions shall be permitted at any of its meetings, and shall any nomination for political office be made.

As to the conduct of the members of the organization in this State during the recent campaign, the general order, just issued by Department Commander Vanosdol bears timely testimony. "During the past four months," the order reads, "the excitement incident to a heated campaign has diverted the attention of comrades generally from the work of the post-room. The excitement over, the department commander desires to express his appreciation of the bearing of comrades of this department during the campaign. While each had his political preference and opinion, yet all were so discreet in act and word that no influence was the position of the G. A. R. been called in question. This evidences a high regard for our noble order and one that warrants the department commander in expecting from every comrade a renewed and active part in the work committed to our care." Other testimony is to the same effect, and the reports received and applications filed since the election show that the order was never more united, vigorous and healthy than it is at present. The requests for permits to hold special meetings of posts for the purpose of taking in new members, and the Col. Walker, assistant adjutant-general of this State, during the past few weeks indicate increased activity and progress, and the only effect of the excitement incident to the campaign was to be an unprecedented increase in its prosperity.

DRIFT OF STREET GOSSIP.

Brief Expressions on Several Topics from Waste of Natural Gas to Politics.

"I see some one is going to introduce a bill at the coming session of the Legislature prohibiting the waste of natural gas," said a gentleman from Pittsburg. "That is just the kind of a law we would not want in Pennsylvania; we have an idea there that the escape of the gas should not be obstructed. Scientists have told us that if we want to continue in possession of it we must let the gas have full vent. Their idea is that if it is not permitted to escape in one place it will seek a vent elsewhere, and the first well not productive and transferring the field to other districts in which gas cannot now be found."

"It is a mistake about me being the first member of the new Legislature to choose a seat," Capt. J. B. Curtis remarked yesterday. "I was the first man to get a seat, though. Three weeks before the election two Democratic candidates for Representative from northern counties came down and had the State Librarian select for them the best seats in the House. They went back home feeling good, but both were defeated. I could give their names but I don't want to look for a seat until after I am elected."

The show-window artists are in demand now, and will be for the next four or five weeks. It is the time of year when there is considerable rivalry among enterprising merchants to see who can present the most attractive display of goods to the strangers upon the streets. "We pay as much attention to the displays in our show-windows as we do to buying goods," said a Washington-street merchant. "And many other firms are equally as particular. We employ men the year through to arrange our window displays for us, and from now on until New Year's the decorations will be changed every night. Our idea is to always have something new. Show-window artists are not very plentiful, and those who are adept at the business are always in demand."

The trustees of the Insane Hospital, it is understood, will try to have the General Assembly compromise with public opinion concerning the mismanagement of that institution by letting Dr. Harrison go and retaining the spirit of the old board in making Phil Gape the Doctor's successor. Whether Burrell is to be kept in place has not come to the surface, but the movement in favor of Gape is already well defined. "Of course," said one conversant with the facts, "John E. Sullivan is giving this scheme his best attention. It is believed that Gape's election by the General Assembly will satisfy Sullivan for his defeat as delegate to the St. Louis convention. He proposes to use that occurrence for all that it will bring him in the next General Assembly. Sullivan's contract with the asylum will be the price of harmony among the local Democracy, and no one can see to their being awarded to the latter better than Gape, who is Sullivan's business manager."

OUGHT TO GO AHEAD.

A Talk with One of the Men Who Helped to Make an Attractive Suburb of This City.

Among the guests at the New Denison yesterday was Mr. R. D. Woodruff, of Auburn, N. Y., brother of the gentleman who laid out the northern suburb of this city, known as Woodruff Place, and himself still interested as an owner of part of that village. "I do not know," he said, in answer to questions by a Journal reporter, "why Indianapolis, from this time forward, should not have a sure and steady growth. I have no idea there will be any 'boom,' for the disastrous experience of the seventies is still too recent to permit people here to forget it, and besides, the majority of residents here are not such as would be inclined to take hold of any boom enterprise and push it forward to a successful conclusion. They are not constructed that way. Still, a good start has been made here, and the city has so many advantages that it can hardly fail to go ahead. A president has been elected from it, which is an advertisement of no small dimensions, and with the natural gas supply at hand there ought to be no trouble about fuel. What seems to be wanted just now is more commerce to bring it in."

"What about the independent republic which bears your name?" "Well, I haven't much inclination to review the whole history of that enterprise. Postmaster General Sherman, I remember, was usually instructive, but not always pleasant. I was not the founder of Woodruff Place, and only became interested in it through advancing money to my brother, who began the undertaking. It was a unique idea of his to establish a residence settlement within the city, and yet have it under the control of its own residents, and not subject to the city government.
